Drinking water meters: Don't install meters

Let us know why: I believe that the budget for meters is a redundant use of rate payers money, if these meters are to find the so called loss of up to 50% of rate payers water, we should explore all options and look at alternative methods that are far more sustainable than meters with a proposed shelf life of 5 years, have you looked into acoustic or vibration sensors, I feel more research needs to be done on metering house holds and a cost analysis on these other options to be presented to the residents for their feedback.

Elderly Persons Housing:

What do you think about our plans for our other projects and activities?: Water supplier upgrade. From the information provided and consultation with locals, the question is...why are these upgrades going to cost so much? We need to look at other regions who have recently upgraded Their water supplies and it out to tender to new contractors, Its a competitive world ask them to sharpen their pencil! Then come back to residents and submit some pricing that locals and actually stomach.
